judges' comments

The garden has multiple layers of complexity and was clearly an outstanding winner from all other entries. Tom Remfry has given great consideration to the microclimatic aspects of all the different areas of this garden so that all plants are in superb health and require very little intervention outside their natural growth habits. A thoughtful organic approach to soil, water, compost and mulch has been applied very successfully and it is clear that this garden is maintained by a knowledgeable and passionate horticulturalist. Tom has also built a very strong relationship with the client and has incorporated working side by side into the maintenance plan. This is one of the most organised and professional jobs I have ever been on. The project is brilliant.
